SPORTSMEN TO CLEAR TULE TRAILS

PORTERVILLE, Jan. 23 — Project to brush out and improve trails between roads and the Tule river was approved Friday evening by directors of the Southern Tulare County Sportsmen's association.

President Charlie Davis says that improvement of trails is planned for the areas between the Forks and Moorehouse hatchery, and between the Forks and Wishon.

The project has a dual purpose, according to Davis — to make it easier for hatchery personnel to get to the river for trout planting, also to make it easier for fishermen to get to the river from roads.

March 8 was set as date for a crew of sportsmen to "go to work" with Davis to set up this committee. Working on the project is Wayne Parker, Moorehouse Hatchery superintendent and also a director of the Sportsmen's association.

CORRECTION

POWER REELECTED

VISALIA, Jan. 23 — Domer F. Power, Strathmore district citrus and olive grower, was reelected to his fourth term as president of the Tulare county chamber of commerce at a meeting of directors Tuesday.

GENERAL PLAN for a 31-square-mile area centered by the City of Porterville officially got underway Monday as members of the city staff met with Lawrence A. Wise, of Hahn, Wise and Associates, the firm contracted to develop the plan, and with F. Darrell Husum, field representative, State Office of Planning, Department of Finance, State of California. Object of the meeting was to outline procedure, study necessary accounting forms, and to detail first steps in putting together the vast amount of information that will be needed. From left, seated, are: Bob Pollard, city engineer; and director of public works; Bob Rogers, city manager; Wise; Husum; Fannye Natzke, city auditor; and Melba Lawing, secretary for the city planning commission and building department. In back, from left; Bob Krager, city building inspector, Bob Waggle and Haney Pack, civil engineer technicians; and Earl Dunn, civil engineer aid. Development of the general plan will require about 18 months, with the first six months or so used in putting together information and preparing maps. A number of public hearings will be held later. The $48,000 planning project is financed by a $32,000 grant of tax money from the federal government plus $16,000 from the city of Porterville, with half of the latter amount to be work credit by city employees. The so-called 701 program is administered through the state office of planning.

TULARE COUNTY'S oldest twins - Lulu B. Benton, of Tulare and Lillie G. Carter, of Porterville - observed their 85th birthday anniversary with an open house at Mrs. Carter's apartment, Saturday. The women, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Sherman, were born at Milo, January 18, 1879 to a family in which there were seven boys and seven girls. In above photo, Mrs. Benton is at left, Mrs. Carter at right. With them is Ruby Brown Maston, of Porterville, a lifelong friend, who, as a young girl remembers riding from the home of her family, the Clint Browns, in Frazier valley, about five miles to the Sherman place in Epperson flats, often taking a half a lamb, butchered by her father. The women, and friends who dropped in Saturday, reminisced about "the old days," but the "Sherman twins" recall that they were not always the good old days. "It took a lot of scratching to keep food on the table for a family of 16," they said, "and we were always glad to see Ruby ride up." But the conversation Saturday centered not around the hardships, but around the good times of the past, and the friends of present and bygone days.

LOOK TOWARD THE FUTURE

Many persons and considerable property will be influenced by development of a general plan, officially started this week, involving a 31-square-mile area centered by the city of Porterville.

In implementing this plan, which will require at least 18 months to complete, administrators of the city feel that the aforementioned influence will be of a most beneficial nature and in the long run will tend to increase and protect property values.

Most certainly more than the city itself is involved. Operating within the general plan area are the High school and several Elementary school districts, the Veterans' Memorial district, the Sierra View Hospital district, the Porterville Irrigation district, several ditch companies, County of Tulare, and a number of private farming enterprises.

The general plan will be concerned with a pattern for orderly development of this 31-mile area, roughly what might be called the Porterville city and urban area. Such things as street and road pattern; drainage; location of public facilities such as parks, playgrounds and schools; problems of expanding sewage and water facilities; projected pattern and type of land use, as well as detailed mapping of present land uses; parking needs; business community potential and needs; potential industrial, residential and business areas of the future — all of these things, and other items, will be considered in the general plan.

Now it should be understood at the beginning that no one is trying to force anything down anyone's throat. The ultimate plan might be considered as an inventory of what the community has plus an educated guess as to what the community may do in the future. The general plan will be a guide for the future — a guide that will be constantly updated and reappraised in light of actual community developments as the months and years go by.

In the building of this plan the city of Porterville has employed top-flight professional planners to handle the technical chores. But the plan, to carry full value, must also incorporate the best thinking and best judgment of many persons within the community.

Consequently, it is to be hoped that all political subdivision will enter into the spirit of this general plan as it develops, sending representatives to the many public hearings that will be held, as well as sitting in on working sessions of the city planning commission and city council.

And in addition, all property owners in the area of planning, and adjacent to it also, should keep abreast of what's going on and should make their wishes known at the proper times.

To be most effective, the Porterville general plan must represent an accumulation of, and cataloging of, community thinking — logical and broad community thinking tied together by planning technicians.

Such a plan can be of great value to the community as a guide for the future.

The time is here; work is officially underway; let's make it a real worthwhile and fine Porterville community project.

CHAPEL CHIMES

By Rev. N. J.
Thompson

No one can tell what mark this year will make on the world. God has placed us on the great revolving wheel of Time, which keeps whirling us into unknown scenes, unexplored paths. But if we choose the strait and narrow, this could likely be the best year of our lives. To make it the best, we must exercise the patience of Job in trying to solve the crime problem, the racial problem, violence, juvenile delinquency, etc. We can successfully meet these challenges, with the help of the Lord.

To help us enjoy meeting these challenges, a writer in a religious magazine offers the following recipe:

Take 12 full-grown, ripe months, and see that they are free from bitterness, hate, and jealousy. Peel off every speck of spite and pettiness. In short, see that these months are as fresh as when they first came from God's storehouse of Time.

Cut these months into 30 or 31 equal parts. This batch will last a whole year. But do not try to sample the whole lot at once — it often spoils the flavor. Let us prepare only one day at a time.

Into each day pour full measures of faith, patience, courage, and hard work. Add liberal portions of hope, fidelity, and tolerance. Season well with medication and prayer, and top with one well-selected resolution.

Along with your conscientious scruples, you might add a dash of fun, a sprinkling of play, and a heap of good humor. Pour in a lot of love and mix well. Cook at fervent heat and garnish with a few smiles and a sprig of joy. Serve with quietness, kindness, and cheerfulness — and a Happy New Year is assured.

The squirrel's name comes from two Greek words "skia" and "oura". Literally, the name means "he who holds his tail over his back to shade himself."

Decision of City Manager Bob Rogers to join the Jack Tarr hotel organization, with an assignment in the Bahamas, did not come as a surprise to Porterville city council members. Salaries of considerably more magnitude than Porterville can pay are available to capable administrators in public and private business fields. A city the size of Porterville must take the younger men on their way up, or the older ones who have traveled the road and are ready to settle in one spot.

Department Of Employment And College Cooperate In Training Of Nurse Aides In Classes At Springville Hospital

PORTERVILLE, Jan. 23 — Women who are taking six-week nurses' aide training programs under provisions of the Manpower Development Training Act are having little difficulty finding employment, according to Norman Polly, manager of the local office of the State Department of Employment, and there probably will be plenty of jobs available in the area for graduates of future classes under the program.

The six-week class sessions, which include 30 full days of class and clinical work, are being conducted in facilities of the Tulare-Kings Hospital at Springville, through the cooperation of the employment office and under the supervision of Porterville College personnel. A first class of 18 students was graduated in December and a second class of 17 students currently is receiving instruction at the hospital.

Of the students who completed the course in December, all 18

CALIFORNIA AGRICULTURE PRODUCED OVER $3 BILLION WORTH OF FOOD AND FIBRE IN '63 FOR FIFTH YEAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23—Despite some adversities, California agriculture produced more than $3 billion worth of foods and fibers for the fifth consecutive year in 1963, according to the Council of California Growers.

A preliminary report by the California Crop and Livestock Reporting service estimated California's 1963 agricultural production at $3.4 billion. This compares with $3.3 billion in 1962.

When the final figures are compiled, it is expected they will show that California again has topped all other states in the value of agricultural production, a position it has held for 15 previous years.

Crop damaging freezes, winds, and unseasonal heat and rain, plus some localized outbreaks of plant diseases and insects — these were among the more serious adversities suffered by California farmers in 1963.

The "big freeze" in January destroyed or damaged citrus crops in the San Joaquin valley and in Ventura, Santa Barbara, and other Southern California counties; cabbage and lettuce in the Imperial valley, as well as artichokes in the Monterey area. High winds last winter scarred some citrus fruits, and blew some off the trees.

However, due to heavier plantings in recent years, primarily in the San Joaquin valley, the Crop and Livestock Reporting service estimates that during the 1963-64 season orange production will increase by 15 percent, lemons by 21 percent, and grapefruit by 58 percent.

Unseasonal early fall rains, and the extreme heat wave in late September were especially damaging to Southern California market and canning tomatoes, to dry beans, to walnuts, and several other vegetable crops.

Employers of Mexican national field workers (braceros) for seasonal tasks breathed a short sigh of relief in December when Congress extended Public Law 78 for another year. Will the continued recruitment of domestic workers and advances in mechanization be sufficient to offset the loss of braceros by the end of 1964? Most growers do not believe so. Intensive grower recruiting in the past has failed to produce enough domestic workers to do the job at peak harvest. And mechanization is a long way off in the labor-intensive crops. Some of these crops must be "re-designed" by plant breeders over a period of years be-

BIG DATES ON CALENDAR FOR ELECTIONS

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 23 — The year of 1964 is an election year, and that means there are some big dates on the California calendar. Here they are, as listed by Secretary of State Frank Jordan:

June 2—The consolidated presidential state primary.

November 3—The general election.

January 17 — Last day to qualify a new political party.

February 10 to February 19 — Intent to run for legislative office must be filed—a new requirement in the state election code.

February 24 to March 20—Candidates for all offices must file.

March 4 to April 5 — Filing period for nomination for party delegates in the presidential primary.

April 9 — Last day to register for the primary election.

June 25 — Last day to qualify an initiative measure for the November general election.

Republicans will choose 86 delegates to the party's national convention in San Francisco, starting July 13; Democrats will elect 160 delegates, with each having a half vote at the national Democrat convention that opens August 24 in Atlantic City.

There will be a total of 139 partisan offices up for grabs in California: one U.S. Senator, (Engle) 38 congressmen, (including Hagen) 20 of the 40 State Senators, (not including Way) 80 State Assemblymen (including Frew), and all party central committee members.

Filing fee for the state legislature has been upped from $20 to $60; for a U.S. Senator the filing fee is $450; for a congressman, $225.

Any group desiring to qualify a new political party in California may do so by securing 592,960 petition signatures, and proving 59,296 registrations.

NEW OFFICERS FOR COMMISSION

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 23 — Henry Clineschmidt and Thomas H. Richards, Jr., assumed their duties as president and vice president, respectively, of the California Fish and Game commission on January 15. The two were elected to head the commission in 1964 at the group's December meeting. Both are veteran commissioners, Clineschmidt serving since February 4, 1959, and Richards since December 28, 1956.

fore they can be harvested by machines.

Early in October, University of California engineers took the wraps off two experimental harvest machines, one for lettuce and the other for cantaloupes. But it could take from three to five years before they are developed to the point where they are practical.

One nationally-noted event last August was the shipment of the millionth carload of lettuce from the Salinas valley to New York City. Lettuce is an $87 million crop in California.

More than a million head of cattle and calves were being fattened in California feedlots in December, the second year in which cattle on feed exceeded one million in this month. Cattle represent more than a half billion dollar industry in the state.

California agriculture, the least subsidized and least government controlled agriculture in the U.S., is the most productive.

"If we can keep it that way, California will continue to be the No. 1 agricultural state," says Gordon Van Vleck, president of the council.

CHARLIE DAVIS HEADS HOSPITAL GROUP

Snow Party Planned By Ducor 4-H Club In Sequoia Park

DUCOR, Jan. 23—A snow party at Lodge Pole on February 1 was planned by the Ducor 4-H club at the January meeting, and a clean-up of roadsides in the Ducor area was voted as a community project. Project reports were given by Cathy Garlock, Gayle Owen, and Donna Kirkland; an educational tour was discussed; and a "thank-you" note was read from the Porterville State hospital for gifts given to patients at Christmas.

President Calvin Todd presided; flag salute was led by Donna Evans; minutes were read by Secretary Virginia Rankins; refreshments were served at end of the meeting by Arnie Anthony, Mike Bates and Sherri Fitterer.

Light cutting of lettuce is underway in San Diego county.

LARGER 1963-64 CITRUS CROP ESTIMATED FOR CALIFORNIA AT 1.9 MILLION TONS

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 23 — Production of California citrus fruits for the 1963-64 season is estimated at 1.9 million tons, 16 percent above the 1.6 million tons harvested a year ago and nine percent higher than the recent year average of 1.7 million tons.

December weather was cold in the central valley, but fog and overcast held temperatures above the freezing level for most of the month. In southern California, citrus orchards are becoming dry and many growers are irrigating on a summer schedule to maintain soil moisture levels.

The forecast for Navel oranges continues at 16 million boxes, over one-fourth above the 12.6 million boxes harvested a year ago and nearly one-half above average. Picking has been hampered in the central valley by foggy and cold weather, and a longer than usual harvest season is anticipated.

The forecast for Valencia oranges continues at 17 million boxes, five percent above the 16.2 million boxes harvested last year, but about average. Fruit growth rates have been below normal, and southern California groves need a good penetrating rain. The forecast for Desert Valley grapefruit continues at 1.9 million boxes, and other areas 1.5 million boxes. Total grapefruit production for all areas is expected to be more than one-third above last year and nearly one-third above average. Harvest of Desert Valley grapefruit is expected to increase seasonally during January.

The California lemon crop is now forecast at 14.5 million boxes, 17 percent above the relatively small 12.4 million boxes harvested a year ago, but still nine percent below average. Harvest has been slowed by cool dry weather.
